Azzura Marine's Expansion Accelerated

Azzura Marine announced it had concluded an agreement with Sensation Yachts to acquire its business assets and take over its facility at 50 Fitzroy Street, Carrington, New South Wales.

This agreement enables Azzura Marine to continue using the facility for its existing refit and repair projects and allows the group to commence building superyachts in Newcastle, earlier than anticipated.

Principal of Azzura Marine, Iain Murray AM, said he was excited at the prospect of being able to bring forward plans to further expand the group's marine interests and to make the most of the present market momentum.

"Securing the site will allow Azzura Marine to complete our current refit and repair works but also aggressively pursue other opportunities that would not have been possible without the availability of this type of facility and infrastructure," Mr Murray said.

"The foundation of this agreement provides a positive step for renewed activity on the site and will generate an immediate influx of work, with employment in the short term expected to reach over 100 staff under the direction of Azzura Marine."

The global market demand for the construction and refit/repair of superyachts has flourished over the recent years however growth of this market in Australia has been restricted by the lack of suitable shipyards. Azzura Marine expects to position this precinct as an internationally recognisable hub for superyachts in Australia.

The site has an impressive list of characteristics including deep water access, 240 meters of wharf space, 900T lifting capacity, a large 120x45 metre single span construction hall and associated workshops, all of which will allow for unique client offerings and experiences.

Azzura Marine has embarked on this initiative in addition to fulfilling its current obligations in redeveloping the former State Dockyard at Dyke Point, also in Newcastle.

Azzura Marine currently has two other boat building facilities in Australia producing a range of high quality motor and sailing yachts including the Azzura Yacht, Marten Yacht and Sydney Yacht brands.

Editors Notes:

How cold is it! We know that it is cold when the boys where shoes to work & long pants!

All in all, not a bad winter for ferry folk- we did manage to gain the attention of the Ministry of Transport in all the private ferry operators in NSW working on new contracts for us all- and hopefully some help with fuel prices! We paid $195/litre the week before last- and we buy truckloads a week just for the SARATOGA!

Also some good news – July had the biggest month of commuters using the service! Thanks to all who support it. Some say that you can set your watch by the ferry in the morning!

Please support the Putt Putt Trivia Night – it is all for a good cause. And for those who love their football- catch the ferry, save $$$$', relax & enjoy!

Boaties: Beware of Lintern St Wharf- there are unlit markers & buoys on a wire rope due to the construction of the ramp (never ending story here!). Our skippers are taking EXTREME care here and are coming alongside port side to try to keep our poor propellers out of danger- new ones on their way!
